Spotlight on Olde Heritage Builders

Olde Heritage Builders is celebrating its 25th anniversary this year. Located at 806 North Arendell Avenue, we are a family business that prides itself in doing good things for the area. Those things include building environmentally and economically sustainable homes, putting local people to work, using local vendors for supplies, and always giving back to the community of our time and money.

As conveyed in our Mission Statement, we are a team of dedicated building professionals who leads through excellence, community service, hard work, and technology. We strive to achieve high levels of customer satisfaction, to be profitable, and to provide a successful environment for our clients and work force.

We have put our commitment and focus on becoming the area's top green builder. We are always learning how to make homes cost less to operate, require less maintenance, be more durable, make less impact on the environment, and be more valuable in the future because they won't be obsolete. We do not, however, try to keep these building practices to ourselves. We are always teaching other builders the new building science principles we have been taught. We do that because it's important for everyone to build a better home.

We believe there will soon be a standard that new homes and existing homes must meet in terms of energy efficiency. In order to diversify and expand our operations, we have joined forces with other area energy experts in forming Energy Savers of NC. This company will focus on increasing energy efficiency and indoor air quality in existing homes in the triangle and beyond. Please stay tuned for more information on Energy Savers of NC. You can reach us anytime at 269-4555 and be sure to visit our booth at the Chamber's 2009 Business Expo!
